SEASONAL THREAT: SLIP AND FALLS

The colder weather is starting to arrive, and that means slip-and-fall season isn't far behind. Millions of people visit the emergency room each year due to slip and fall injuries - which also can result in thousands of dollars in medical bills and lost wages for each individual.

If you're a homeowner you'll want to protect yourself from litigation. Be sure to keep your walkway free of snow and ice to prevent people from falling on your property. Keep in mind fallen leaves can also be a fall hazard.

If you fall and are injured due to negligence, there are steps you should take to document the situation in the event you want to make a claim, including:

- Take photos showing what caused you to fall
- Get contact information from any witnesses
- Report the injury to the owner in writing
- Get prompt medical attention
- Don't sign any authorizations or releases until you consult an attorney

The Law Offices of Ronald J. Resmini can help you determine if you have a claim, as well as prove liability and damages in the court of law. Contact our law firm at 401-444-4444 and we'd be glad to help walk you through the process.
